Last Week's Highlights:

Invocation, Aleene Althouse: Life without love is next to mere existence, for love it is what makes life worth living. Love acts as a grease and allows the wheel of life to continue turning. When we are struck by love, we look at people beyond ourselves and things beyond our needs and concerns...

Detective: Love was in the air! The Valentines Day themed report by Aleene Althouse was a huge success. Rotary is clearly the secret to a long and happy marriage as Rotarians dished Happy Dollars for the years they've been happily married (not to be confused w/ just-plain-married). Aleene raised a total of $582.26. Great job, Aleene!!

Also, some great V-Day success or disaster stories: 9 months after one V-Day, Blaine Brokaw he had a daughter. Stoney hit the set of Dirty Harry: Sudden Impact to impress his soon-to-be-wife. Before there was Coronavirus, there was H1N1, or swine flu, for Sarah Madsen... And probably the biggest disaster of all: Masi received a surprise, restaurant proposal and broke up with her then-BF; she wasn't ready for marriage. The proposal was sent to her table by mistake. Did they leave a tip?

Raffle Winner: Kevin Dempsey won bottle of Bargetto wine and tickets to the symphony. Thanks John!

Last Week's Program – The Great Morgani

The Great Morgani serenaded the club with songs and told a few stories too. He left his stockbroker job when he was just 35 and made a second career as a street performer.

He has 150 costumes, 43 accordions and a repertoire of over 2,000 songs, but he doesn't read music.

He makes all of his own costumes, and he wants those costumes to be absurd as possible to attract the most attention during street performances. He nailed it!

HELLUVA SHOW!!!
