Invocation: Bob Bosso opened up the meeting with a reflection on the latest hurricanes and some humor to lighten the mood...“don't knock the weather. If it didn't change once in a while, nine out of ten people couldn't start a conversation.”

Raffle Winner: A lovely gift basket was won by Aleene Althouse, which was put together by Jeanette Pagliaro.

Detective Report: Everyone enjoys a mystery. Playing on that theme was George Gallucci during his detective report.

Last Week's Program

No, this is not a mistake! There was a last minute change to the program last week and we were fortunate to hear the red badge speech by Masi Bayless and a presentation from exchange student Magali Siri.

Masi was born on Christmas in southern California. She shared the history of her name and let us all know how to pronounce it correctly. Her father was an avid bicyclist and chose to name her after Masi Bicycles. She majored in biology at the University of California in Santa Cruz where she was pre-med. Masi went on to Life Chiropractic College West where she completed her post graduate degree. She shared many testimonials from her practice here in Santa Cruz that focuses on the directional non-force technique. Masi is married to her husband, Todd, and they are expecting their first dog.

Magali Siri joined us on short notice and shared her experience thus far in California. Magali is from Franeker, Netherlands and is staying with Aleene Althouse. She shared her passion for running and the outdoors. Magali is currently attending Santa Cruz High School and is on the cross country team.
