June 8th Meeting Recap

INVOCATION: Larry Wallerstein gave a brief history of the Rotary wheel making special note that the spokes and gears of the wheel represent doing projects that help other people. He then gave a shoutout to Jim Zenner and the Water Warriors team that has done so many great water projects to help poor areas that lack clean water.

CLUB DRAWING: Steve Karon won the drawing and immediately re-gifted it to the Walker family to honor them, "As a tribute to I don't quite know what," he said. Wes Walker later reported that the bag contained tickets to the Santa Cruz Symphony and a bottle of Napa Valley Black Ink wine from John Dickinson.

DETECTIVE REPORT: Steve Karon (no, he didn't pay for all these mentions) said he would match all fines then fined Tom Castillo and Cristian Gonzalez for agreeing to audit the finances of his report. Tom Parker got fined for guessing that the ever popular book, The Miller, Boy, and Donkey, was about a miller, a boy, and a donkey. The report included the fake news announcement of a book called Lunch with Bargetto which consists mostly of pictures of Jim. Among others, Ross Condit, Aileen Althouse, Wes Walker, Gary Reece, and Donna Maurillo were fined for actually having had lunch with Jim.

Red Badgers

--Ben Jonas

Born here in 1981, Ben attended Live Oak Elementary School and then went to Stevenson School in Pebble Beach. While there he got fascinated by radio and was a disk jockey for classical rock. He remains today a believer in the value of radio.

He went to college in Grinnell, Iowa where he learned that very cold winters could freeze Lake Michigan, so he returned to California as soon as possible. He described his life as a series of lucky breaks such as getting a job at Nonprofits Insurance Alliance group where he learned how to insure nonprofits. He later started his own company to help nonprofits manage their insurance needs and was later recruited to 501c3 Services in San Jose.

Donna Maurillo asked for more volunteers to join the Rotary team that cleans up the detritus on Cowell and Main beaches on Monday and Wednesday mornings. Summer visitors are hard on beaches and more help is needed!

He enjoys woodworking, home cooking for his family and, of course, his family. Perhaps the highlight of his presentation was his disastrous kite surfing adventure in Germany in which he was dragged 300 yards across a field losing his pants and much of his backside skin. Peter Cook, can you help?

--Michael Hughett

Michael recently overcame his fear of public speaking at a local comedy club so he could now calmly tell us that he was born in South Carolina but later moved to Lynchburg, VA, where he attended both high school and college.

His very serious case of wanderlust was treated with a career as an itinerant bartender which got him to many places and paid for it in the process. He loves dogs and he acquired one through a relationship then later had to retrieve it by moving to where he then ex-girlfriend lived.

That place was Santa Cruz, and he hasn't left since. His college training was in finance and his career track brought him to mortgage financing where he specializes in difficult situations such as short sales and swaps.

He is divorced but spends time with his two children. He was an active athlete when younger and keeps his interest up participating in Scotts Valley Little League and other local parenting activities.

Jill Stone has announced a Rotary Popup Social to be held on June 19th at Abbott Square. Details to follow.

President-Elect Wes Walker announced that the Rotary Roundup Fundraiser exceeded its goals by $50,000. $100,000 will go to the Santa Cruz Rotary Endowment which is now over its $500,000 goal. Another $20,000 went to the B&G Fund.
